MORE OF DR. AMBROSE PAGE.

Our readers will recollect the figure which this celebrated character has made (if we may believe his own account of the matter) since his arrival in Africa. According to his former letter, which he addressed to his late master in this place, he was about to abandon the practice of the law, and to accept some office less prejudicial to his health. We now find from the following letter to his wife, that he unites the professions of Doctor (we presume Doctor of Physic) and Counsellor; thus affording a rare instance of a happy combination of talents, fitted for two very opposite professions in the same individual.

Lame Free Town in Africa, may 27th, 1821.

my dear milly; i embrace this opperfunity to write to you again and this will perhaps Be the Last time For i have wrote to you so often and got no letter from you that i think it to be no use. WESTERN STORY.

Delaware, (Ohio,) Nov. 30—Innumerable quantities of pigeons have been collected in this, Franklin county, for a few days past. In the neighbourhood of Worthington, in particular, in the fore part of last week, they were much more numerous than ever before known in this part of the country. Any description of which we are capable, would be inadequate to convey an idea of their numbers. For nearly an hour on Tuesday evening last, the horizon was darkened with them as far as the eye could extend in every direction, & immense numbers had preceded this main body. In their flight, and when collected at their roosts (which is from two to three miles south east from Worthington) they made a noise resembling a distant waterfall, and which may be distinctly heard more than two miles. The most credulous will scarcely believe without actually seeing, what havoc is made among the trees, on the ground they had chosen for a roost. We had the curiosity to visit this ground, and actually saw trees, (elm and oak) from eighteen to two feet in diameter, which were broken down and turned out at the roots by them.

Many of the citizens in the neighbourhood of this ground, amuse themselves by shooting them at night, and as many as from five to eight hundred, have been brought in of a morning—as many as twenty have been brought down at one shot. The ground occupied as a roost is an oblong of about three and a quarter miles in length by two in width, and every twig within these bounds is loaded with them each night. They will probably continue until they destroy a great portion of the beech and oak mast, which is very plenty this season. [N. Y. Journal.

Summary Justice.—One day last week a highwayman stopped a farmer on the Lincoln road, near Dogsthorpe, between Peterborough and Peakirk, and threatened to murder him with a bludgeon if he did not deliver his money; but before a robbery could be effected, a stout man on horseback made his appearance on the road, and he and the farmer together gave the highwayman such a thorough thumping, as they thought might mend his manners, without having recourse to the law. The farmer belaboured the ruffian with his own bludgeon, whilst the person on horseback literally cut the fellows clothes from his back with a whip which he had, well suited for such a purpose. They then let the humbled and galled devil depart.—Stamford Mercury.

Bordentown, (N. J.) Dec. 17.

Prediction Fulfilled.—The execution of John Gooby, the colored man who was under sentence of death at Woodbury, for murder, took place, pursuant to sentence, on Friday last.—An immense concourse of people attended, as we have been informed, notwithstanding the severity of the season. A few days ago, a respectable gentleman of the place related an anecdote of this unfortunate man which took place not long since in the prison were the two confined. A gentleman who resides in Gloucester county, and who had formerly known Gooby, went into the jail to see him.—While in conversation, the [illegible] rose about him whether he remembered [illegible] having at one time saved his life by pulling him out of one of the docks in Philadelphia, into which he accidentally had fallen, and where he would have been drowned if he had not came to his rescue. 'I do' replied Gooby, 'and do you recollect what I told you after you had taken me out of the water—'that he who was born to be hanged, would never be drowned'—whig.

Market Stalls.

Agreeably to an advertisement of the city Commissioners, the stalls in the new market house in High-street, between Sixth and Seventh-streets, intended to be occupied by victuallers, were all rented to the highest bidders. For one of the stalls, Three hundred dollars were given by David Woelpper, Esq. Another brought 185 dollars. The lowest price at which any of them went off, was 84 dollars. [Sentinel.

From the Halifax Compiler.

PARRICIDE—A lad between sixteen and seventeen years of age, named William Wiggins, living in Hertford county, was on the 13th ult. committed to the jail of said county, for murdering his father Thomas Wiggins. It appears that the young perpetrator of this unnatural crime had a quarrel or scuffle with his mother, (his father being from home,) in which the latter proved conqueror. He then left the parents house and went to another one in the neighbourhood with a gun, when his father returned home, he was informed of the conduct and absence of his son, he went in pursuit of him, he found him but it was a 'fatal discovery,' for the boy shot him almost dead upon the spot, as soon as he found an opportunity, which presented itself in a little time after the arrival of the deceased!! All that he was heard to say after being shot was 'help me—William has shot me—I know it was him—I would not have served him so.'

As the youth is awaiting in confinement the investigation of those laws of God and man, which he has so wantonly violated, we must not dwell upon the enormity of the offence.

On Wednesday a man underwent the sentence of the law at Gloucester, by being flogged at the cart's tail through the principle streets in that city, for the crime of child stealing, to an extent probably never before practised in this country, having stolen no less than five children, three of them of one family; the oldest of them only four years. An incalculable concourse of people were assembled to see the punishment inflicted; the pin-manufactory and other places of business were deserted for the time. The women were particularly outrageous in their execrations against him; they called out to the executioner, that he did not flog him sufficiently severe, and at the conclusion of the flagellation, on his being untied from the cart, it was with the greatest difficulty he was kept from the women wreaking their vengeance upon him on his way back to the prison. It is understood that the cruel and unfeeling wretch said that he had been employed to steal the children, but refused to tell the motive.

Longevity.—A circumstance somewhat singular, that under the same roof there are now living in Concord N. H. four different generations. Rheuben Abbot, senior, born April 15 1723, his son Reuben born February 6, 1764; his grandson Reuben October 23, 1790; and his great grandson Reuben, on the 20th November, 1815. The three descendants were all born under the paternal roof of the patriarch of the family. We doubt whether a similar instance can any where be found.—Con. Pat.

Lord Bathurst, writing to Dean Swift, thus speaks of corporate bodies: "All Corporations of men are perpetually doing injustice in individuals. I have often reflected (from what cause it arises I know not) that the majority of a Society are honest men, and would act separately, with some humanity, and according to the rules of morality; yet, conjunctively, they are hard-hearted, determined villains. I know physicians who, if you take them out of their profession, are very good sort of [illegible] but one there is in the world a corporation of them that tended to [illegible] boy and murder! Do they [illegible] think of any thing else but [illegible] the [illegible] no corporation [illegible] eral rule. [illegible] and all [illegible] pursued [illegible]

The ground occupied as a roost is an oblong of about three and a quarter miles in length by two in width, and every twig within these bounds is loaded with them each night. They will probably continue until they destroy a great portion of the beech and oak mast, which is very plenty this season. [N. Y. Journal.

Summary Justice.—One day last week a highwayman stopped a farmer on the Lincoln road, near Dogsthorpe, between Peterborough and Peakirk, and threatened to murder him with a bludgeon if he did not deliver his money; but before a robbery could be effected, a stout man on horseback made his appearance on the road, and he and the farmer together gave the highwayman such a thorough thumping, as they thought might mend his manners, without having recourse to the law. The farmer belaboured the ruffian with his own bludgeon, whilst the person on horseback literally cut the fellows clothes from his back with a whip which he had, well suited for such a purpose. They then let the humbled and galled devil depart.—Stamford Mercury.

BRIDGETOWN, (N. J.) Dec. 17.

Prediction Fulfilled.—The execution of John Gooby, the colored man who was under sentence of death at Woodbury, for murder, took place, pursuant to sentence, on Friday last.—An immense concourse of people attened, as we have been informed, notwithstanding the severity of the season. A few days ago, a respectable gentleman of the place related an anecdote of that unfortunate man which took place not long since in the prison were he was confined. A gentleman who resides in Gloucester county, and who had formerly known Gooby, went into the jail to see him.—While in conversation, the gentleman asked him whether he recollected his having at one time saved his life by pulling him out of one of the docks in Philadelphia, into which he accidentally had fallen and where he would have been drowned if he had not came to his rescue. 'I do' replied Gooby, 'and do you recollect what I told you after you had taken me out of the water— 'that he who was born to be hanged, would never be drowned'—whig.

Market Stalls.

Agreeably to an advertisement of the city Commissioners, the stalls in the new market house in High-street, between Sixth and Seventh-streets, intended to be occupied by victuallers, were all rented to the highest bidders. For one of the stalls, Three hundred dollars were given by David Woelpper, Esq. Another brought 185 dollars. The lowest price at which any of them went off, was 84 dollars. [Sentinel.

From the Halifax Compiler.

PARRICIDE—A lad between sixteen and seventeen years of age, named William Wiggins, living in Hertford county, was on the 13th ult. committed to the jail of said county, for murdering his father Thomas Wiggins. It appears that the young perpetrator of this unnatural crime had a quarrel or scuffle with his mother, (his father being from home,) in which the latter proved conqueror. He then left the parents house and went to another one in the neighbourhood with a gun, when his father returned home, he was informed of the conduct and absence of his son, he went in pursuit of him, he found him but it was a 'fatal discovery,' for the boy shot him almost dead upon the spot as soon as he found an opportunity, which presented itself in a little time after the arrival of the deceased!! All that he was heard to say after being shot was 'help me—William has shot me—I know it was him—I would not have served him so.'

As the youth is awaiting in confinement the investigation of those laws of God and man, which he has so unnaturally violated, we must not dwell upon the enormity of the offence.

On Wednesday a man underwent the sentence of the law at Gloucester, by being flogged at the cart's tail through the principle streets in that city, for the crime of child stealing, to an extent probably never before practised in this country, having stolen no less than five children, three of them of one family; the oldest of them only four years. An incalculable concourse of people were assembled to see the punishment inflicted; the pin manufactory and other places of business were deserted for the time. The women were particularly outrageous in their execrations against him; they called out to the executioner that he did not flog him sufficiently severe, and at the conclusion of the flagellation, on his being untied from the cart, it was with the greatest difficulty he was kept from the women wreaking their vengence upon him on his way back to the prison. It is understood that the cruel and unfeeling wretch said that he had been employed to steal the children, but refused to tell the motive.

Longevity—A circumstance somewhat singular, that under the same roof there are now living in Concord N. H. four different generations. Rheuben Abbot, senior, born April 15 1723, his son Reuben born February 6, 1764, his grandson Reuben October 23, 1790; and his great grandson Reuben, on the 20th November 1815 The three descendants were all born under the paternal roof of the patriarch of the family. We doubt whether a similar instance can any where be found.—Con. Pat.

Lord Bathurst, writing to Dean Swift, thus speaks of corporate bodies: "All Corporations of men are perpetually doing injustice to individuals. I have often reflected (from what cause it arises I know not) that the majority of a Society are honest men, and would act, separately, with some humanity, and according to the rules of morality; yet, conjunctively, they are hard-hearted, determined villains. I know physicians who, if you take them out of their practice, are very good sort of men, but was there ever in the world a consultation of them that tended to any thing else but robbery and murder? Do the body of lawyers think of any thing else but to plunder and destroy the rest of mankind? In short, there is no corporation to be excepted out of this general rule, but—the two houses of Parliament and all assemblies of Divines, wherever dispersed through the christian world."

Proceedings of Congress.

Tuesday, December 18, 1821.

IN THE SENATE.

Mr. Barbour submitted for consideration the following resolution:

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, two thirds of both Houses concurring, That the following amendment to the constitution of the United States be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States, which, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the States, shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as part of the said constitution, to wit:

"That the number of Representatives shall not exceed two hundred."

The resolve was read a first time and passed to a second reading.

Mr. Johnson, of Kentucky, submitted the following resolution for consideration:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to inquire into the expediency of providing for the preservation and repairing the National Turnpike, beginning at Cumberland, on the Potomac, and terminating at Wheeling, on the Ohio river; and that they have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

Some conversation took place in regard to the form of this resolution, in which Mr. Otis objected to the authority to report by bill being given as proposed. The conversation resulted in Mr. Johnson's modifying his proposition so as to read as follows:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed on Roads and Canals.

Thus modified, the resolve was agreed to by the Senate, and Mr. Johnson, of Ken. King, of New York, Lowrie, Macon, and Mills, were appointed a committee accordingly.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Trimble submitted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee on Roads and Canals be instructed to inquire into the expediency of providing by law for the repair and preservation of the Cumberland Road, and for the establishment of toll gates thereon.

Resolved, That the same committee be instructed to inquire whether any, and, if any, what further provision ought to be made by law, to enable the President of the United States to complete the survey and location of the proposed continuation of the Cumberland road, from Wheeling, in the State of Virginia, through the States of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, to the Mississippi river, and whether any, and, if any, what provision ought to be made to enable the President to cause the said road to be constructed.

Resolved That the President of the United States be requested to cause this house to be informed whether the commissioners appointed to lay out the continuation of the Cumberland Road from Wheeling, in the State of Virginia, thro' the states of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, to the Mississippi river, have completed the same, and, if not completed, the reason why their duties have been suspended.

THURSDAY DECEMBER 20.

CUMBERLAND ROAD, &c.

Mr. Trimble called for the consideration of the resolutions submitted by him on Tuesday relative to the progress and completion of the Cumberland road.

The first of those which was taken up was that which requests the President of the United States to inform the house of the progress which had been made in the survey of the continuation of the Cumberland Road from Wheeling to the Mississippi. This resolve was agreed to without objection.

The two other resolutions respecting the repair of the Cumberland Road, and the execution of the projected road from Wheeling to the Mississippi, were then read, and, being before the House—

Mr. Farrelly wished the resolutions to remain on the table until the information was obtained from the Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to the resolution that he had the honor to introduce, and which had been this morning adopted. It was desirable that the house should act upon the subject with the best lights that the case afforded. It was an important subject. Large sums of money had been expended, and, he feared, to very little purpose, for he had understood that the commissioners had examined the road this season, and had given an unfavorable report of the manner in which the public money had been expended, and that those disbursements were made with an eye to private speculation rather than public utility.

The question was then taken on the passage of the resolves, and decided affirmatively without objection.

Mr. Colden submitted the following resolve:

Resolved, That the Committee to whom was referred the memorial of the Bank of the United States be directed to inquire and report to this House, whether the said Bank is not in the practice of taking more than six per centum per annum for or upon its loans or discounts.

Mr. Little moved to amend the resolution, so as to refer it to the Committee on the Judiciary. The motion was negatived, and the resolution adopted as moved.

An engrossed bill, entitled 'an act to extend the time allowed for the redemption of land sold for Direct Taxes,' was read the third time and passed.

Complete Revolution in Brazil.

Extract of a letter from Norfolk, written on board the Steam-Boat of Baltimore 17th ultimo.

"We are taking on board two passengers from the brig Resolution, thirty-six days from Pernambuco. They report a complete revolution throughout the Brazils, and the establishment of a provisional government, previous to the convention of a Cortes of that Nation. The Prince Regent was shipped from Rio for Lisbon—and the Governor from Pernambuco, previous to the sailing of these passengers on the 10th of November. The ports are all declared open: but markets are not encouraging for American produce. Flour was dull at six milreas."

THE BRITISH SLOOP OF WAR.

The arrival of a British sloop of war with dispatches, being rather an extraordinary event in these piping times of peace, considerable speculation was afloat soon after the Hind was announced, as to the special object of her visit. Some very wise people, who look deeply into millstones, were quite shure that the ports had opened for the reception of foreign corn, and no doubt, by circulating their surmises, lightened many a heart for the moment, with an idea of getting speedily rid of a bad bargain. The following, however, is a true account of the matter.

A person arrived here on Thursday last, in the ship Comet, capt Grisworld, from London, who had been cashier in a branch of the British navy department for 29 years; his sudden disappearance from his desk, excited an alarm, upon examination it was discovered that he was a defaulter to the amount of 18,000l sterling. After searching in vain for him, it was ascertained that he had purchased a bill of a broker in London, for 8,000l. sterling under a fictitious name, on a mercantile house in New-York; he likewise bought 50 shares of stock of the Bank of the United States, besides $30,000 in U. S. stocks of 6 and 7 per cent. all of which, besides other property of his own, he took with him in the above mentioned vessel.

The British government without delay, dispatched a sloop of war in pursuit of the property, with instructions to the commander to proceed to New York, where she arrived on the 25th inst. with documents directed to Buchannan, the British Consul for this port, who immediately called upon the House above alluded to, and was informed that the Bill of 8000l. had been that day accepted. It was now time for the Consul to act.—He procured the aid of two magistrates of the Police, who, with the consul, traced the defaulter to a boarding house, where he had taken lodgings; but not finding them suitable to his views, had shifted to another, where they repaired and found him with his wife in a private room One of the magistrates having introduced himself in a way to prevent alarm to the Lady, proceeded to relate such particulars of his case, in accordance with truth, and in such a manner that it produced his confession of the whole affair. His detail of the causes leading him to this disgraceful act, (although eloquent and interesting) would occupy too much of the columns of a newspaper. The property above mentioned, was delivered up in less than 8 hours after the arrival of the said sloop of war.

The following note upon the subject, from James Buchannan, Esq. British Consul, has been published in some of the papers:—

One of the Chief Clerks in the Navy office, London, having absconded with a considerable sum of money, and sailed for New York, the British sloop of war Hind was dispatched in 3 hours notice from Portsmouth, with a letter from the Marquis of Londonderry to his Majesty's Consul in this city. The ship arrived at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon—the officer delivered the despatch to Mr. Buchannan at half past 4, just as he was sitting down to dinner—fearing that the arrival of the vessel direct from Portsmouth, might excite some alarm, the Consul immediately repaired to our Magistrates of Police, Jos. Hedden and James Hopson, Esqs. who promptly accompanied him, without waiting for an officer, and traced the unlucky fugitive, found him, and obtained nearly all the property, near $100,000.

Legislature of South Carolina.—A bill has been introduced into the Legislature of this state, now in session, to establish an asylum for the reception of lunatics, and a school for the instruction of the deaf and dumb within the state. In the House, notice was given that leave would be asked on a certain day to introduce a bill, making the punishment for the deliberate murder of any negro, or free person of color, death without the benefit of clergy.

THE BRITISH SLOOP OF WAR.

The arrival of a British sloop of war with dispatches, being rather an extraordinary event in these piping times of peace, considerable speculation was afloat soon after the Hind was announced, as to the special object of her visit. Some very wise people, who look deeply into millstones, were quite shure that the ports had opened for the reception of foreign corn, and no doubt, by circulating their surmises, lightened many a heart for the moment, with an idea of getting speedily rid of a bad bargain. The following, however, is a true account of the matter.

A person arrived here on Thursday last, in the ship Comet, capt Grisworld, from London, who had been cashier in a branch of the British navy department for 29 years; his sudden disappearance from his desk, excited an alarm, upon examination it was discovered that he was a defaulter to the amount of 18,000l sterling. After searching in vain for him, it was ascertained that he had purchased a bill of a broker in London, for 8,000l. sterling under a fictitious name, on a mercantile house in New-York; he likewise bought 50 shares of stock of the Bank of the United States, besides $ 30,000 in U. S. stocks of 6 and 7 per cent. all of which, besides other property of his own, he took with him in the above mentioned vessel.

The British government without delay, dispatched a sloop of war in pursuit of the property, with instructions to the commander to proceed to New York, where she arrived on the 25th inst. with documents directed to Buchannan, the British Consul for this port, who immediately called upon the House above alluded to, and was informed that the Bill of 8000l. had been that day accepted. It was now time for the Consul to act.—He procured the aid of two magistrates of the Police, who, with the consul, traced the defaulter to a boarding house, where he had taken lodgings; but not finding them suitable to his views, had shifted to another, where they repaired and found him with his wife in a private room. One of the magistrates having introduced himself in a way to prevent alarm to the Lady, proceeded to relate such particulars of his case, in accordance with truth, and in such a manner that it produced his confession of the whole affair. His detail of the causes leading him to this disgraceful act, (although eloquent and interesting) would occupy too much of the columns of a newspaper. The property above mentioned, was delivered up in less than 8 hours after the arrival of the said sloop of war.

The following note upon the subject, from James Buchannan, Esq. British Consul, has been published in some of the papers:—

One of the Chief Clerks in the Navy office, London, having absconded with a considerable sum of money, and sailed for New York, the British sloop of war Hind was dispatched in 3 hours notice from Portsmouth, with a letter from the Marquis of Londonderry to his Majesty's Consul in this city. The ship arrived at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon—the officer delivered the despatch to Mr. Buchanan at half past 4, just as he was sitting down to dinner—fearing that the arrival of the vessel direct from Portsmouth, might excite some alarm, the Consul immediately repaired to our Magistrates of Police, Jos. Hedden and James Hopson, Esqs. who promptly accompanied him, without waiting for an officer, and traced the unlucky fugitive, found him, and obtained nearly all the property, near $100,000.

Legislature of South Carolina.—A bill has been introduced into the Legislature of this state, now in session, to establish an assylum for the reception of lunatics, and a school for the instruction of the deaf and dumb within the state. In the House, notice was given that leave would be asked on a certain day to introduce a bill, making the punishment for the deliberate murder of any negro, or free person of color, death without the benefit of clergy.

IRELAND.

To Merchants & Others, having business in Ireland.

THE subscriber informs the public that having undertaken the transaction of various kinds of business in Ireland, he left this country last fall, and made a most rapid tour through the northern and southern counties of that island, settling all the business entrusted to his management from the western country, and the consignments he received from the eastern ports, to the advantage, and he is happy to say, to the satisfaction of his constituents.

He begs to state, that while in Ireland, he undertook to transact business which obliges him to return there for a few months, and intends shortly to set out for that country, and should business worth attention, offer in Scotland, or England, he proposes returning via Great Britain, to this country, by the first of September ensuing.

Therefore, he is ready to undertake the execution and settlement of any legal claims, business or commission, that persons residing in this country may have to transact in Ireland or Great Britain.

Persons knowing themselves to be the life of a lease in Ireland, and aware that the landlord would take proof of their existence, by being qualified before the proper authorities in the United States, may now have a favourable opportunity of obliging their friends. Those persons who have applied, or may yet apply, are requested to have their papers immediately forwarded to the Post Office, Canonsburg, Pa. Their communications must be post paid.

As the undersigned is aware that he cannot have an interview with persons residing at a considerable distance, he requests such to be particular in their explanatory letters.

Mrs. and Miss Brevost,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they intend to remove from this city by the first navigable waters after the 20th of February next. They will take it as a favour from their pupils, who have not the prospect of completing their quarter before the breaking up of the Seminary, to continue their attendance. Mrs. and Miss B's exertions for the improvement of those who will remain under their care, shall not abate; they will limit their charges to the precise time of tuition.

Mrs. and Miss B. beg leave of an indulgent public to acknowledge themselves indebted to the zealous and successful exertions of MISS TANNEHILL, who has been for upwards of four years at their seminary; at first as an industrious, intelligent pupil and distinguished member of the first class; and for the last two years as a teacher, in which capacity she has evinced many valuable qualities, among which, talents, punctuality, patience and impartiality were conspicuous: uniting to these a lively interest in the improvement of her pupils. Mrs. and Miss B. would be happy to hear that she were encouraged in the school which she intends commencing on their leaving this place.

$20 REWARD.

RAN away on the 30th of last month from the subscriber, living on Bradock's field, near Pittsburgh, a negro boy, named

JEFFERSON

about 19 years of age, five feet six or seven inches in height. The clothing he took with him, was a roundabout, jacket, and trowsers, of blue striped cotton, a pair of tow-linen trowsers, a white vest and two tow shirts, a wool hat somewhat less than half worn. He has a scar on the top of his head, occasioned by the fall of a brick from a scaffold when a child, which yet continues tender and causes pain when pressed, he is fond of whiskey and will get drunk, at which time he has a stupid look, he effects to be a rigid methodist, and is fond of singing hymns, which he frequently practises. I will give the above reward and all reasonable charges if brought home, or twenty dollars for securing him in any jail in the U. States, so that I can get him again. He went away in company with a yellow man named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Henry Dickson, the property of J. & H. Wallace, who will give a reasonable reward for his apprehension.

"Prevention better than Cure."

Lee's Antibilious Pills,

IS not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the proprietor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these pills, taken once every two weeks during the prevalence of Bilious, Yellow and Malignant Fevers, will, under the blessing of Providence, prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the first stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health.

They are admirably caculated to carry off superfluous bile, and to prevent its morbid secretion—to restore appetite, a regular habit of the body, and promote free perspiration.

☞Please enquire for 'Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills.'

Mr. Noah Ridgely—For two months past I have been afflicted with violent sickness at the stomach, and inclination to vomit, and loss of appetite. By taking two doses of your pills I am restored to a perfect state of health, which induced my wife to try them also, which was attended with the same good effects, being now able to attend to her domestic concerns. In my opinion this medicine is unequalled in stomach and bowel complaints, not being attended with griping pain common to other medicine.

JOHN SCOTT.
Dulany-street, Baltimore.

Lee's Worm Lozenges.

The proprietor has now the pleasure of stating that the following case came under his immediate observation. His little daughter about 5 years old, appeared very visibly to lose her flesh, no particular cause could be given for her thus pining away, she was at length taken with fevers, which, with other symptoms led to believe she had worms; he gave her a dose of Lee's Lozenges, which brought away incredible as it may appear, two worms, the one fifteen and the other thirteen inches in length, each three fourths of an inch round: he has given the Lozenges to another of his children, which brought away a vast number of very small worms.

Lee's Elixir.

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, Catarrhs, asthmas, sore throats, and approaching consumption.

Mr. Noah Ridgely,

I was attacked with a violent cold, a severe cough and pains in my breast, which continued to grow worse; during which my appetite failed, and my voice altered so much, that it was with the utmost exertion I could pronounce a single sentence louder than breathe. Some of my friends observed to me that much had been done by the use of Lee's Elixir, advised me to procure a bottle, which I accordingly did, and to those persons unacquainted with the merits of this medicine, it will appear astonishing, that three doses should remove the pains in my breast, and the use of one bottle restore me to perfect health.

Yours, with respect

Warranted to cure by one application, free from Mercury or any pernicious ingredient—This vegetable remedy is so mild, yet efficacious that it may be used with the utmost safety to the most delicate pregnant lady, or on a child of a week old.

Lee's Ague Drops.

The proprietor is in possession of a number of cases of cures, but for want of room can only give the following recent and extraordinary one:

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM DR. JAMES HAWKIN.

Mr. Noah Ridgely,

Dear Friend, I have sold a phial of your Lee's Ague and Fever Drops to a gentleman in this place, which cured him in TWO DAYS.

Lee's Grand Restorative & Nervous Cordial.

A most valuable medicine for great and general debility, nervous disorders, loss of appetite, &c. &c.

Lee's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

An infallible remedy for sprains, bruises, rheumatism, numbness, &c. &c.

Mr. Noah Ridgely,

Sir—It is with great pleasure and satisfaction that I inform you of the wonderful cure performed on me by your truly excellent Essence of Mustard. I have been so greatly afflicted with rheumatic pains, as to lose entirely the use of my right leg, thigh, and hip, indeed it extended to my shoulder. By the use of the bottle I purchased of you, I am perfectly cured.

You are at liberty to publish this great cure for the benefit of those persons suffering under this dreadful affliction.

Yours with esteem,
THOMAS WOOTTON.

INGRATITUDE—A Song.

Blow, blow, thou winter-wind,
Thou art not so unkind
As man's ingratitude:
Thy tooth is not so keen,
Because thou art not seen,
Although thy breath be rude.

IRELAND.

To Merchants & Others, having business in Ireland.

THE subscriber informs the public that having undertaken the transaction of various kinds of business in Ireland, he left this country last fall, and made a most rapid tour through the northern and southern counties of that island, settling all the business entrusted to his management from the western country, and the consignments he received from the eastern ports, to the advantage, and he is happy to say, to the satisfaction of his constituents.

He begs to state, that while in Ireland, he undertook to transact business which obliges him to return there for a few months, and intends shortly to set out for that country, and should business worth attention, offer in Scotland, or England, he proposes returning via Great Britain, to this country, by the first of September ensuing.

Therefore, he is ready to undertake the execution and settlement of any legal claims, business or commission, that persons residing in this country may have to transact in Ireland or Great Britain.

Persons knowing themselves to be the life of a lease in Ireland, and aware that the landlord would take proof of their existence, by being qualified before the proper authorities in the United States, may now have a favourable opportunity of obliging their friends. Those persons who have applied, or may yet apply, are requested to have their papers immediately forwarded to the Post Office, Canonsburg, Pa. Their communications must be post paid

As the undersigned is aware that he cannot have an interview with persons residing at a considerable distance, he requests such to be particular in their explanatory letters.

Take heed how you disguise your natural character, and imitate others. Adhere to nature, if you desire to please, for whatever is fictitious and affected, is always insipid and disgusting.

Mrs. and Miss Brevost,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they intend to remove from this city by the first navigable waters after the 20th of February next. They will take it as a favour from their pupils, who have not the prospect of completing their quarter before the breaking up of the Seminary, to continue their attendance. Mrs. and Miss B's exertions for the improvement of those who will remain under their care, shall not abate; they will limit their charges to the precise time of tuition.

Mrs. and Miss B. beg leave of an indulgent public to acknowledge themselves indebted to the zealous and successful exertions of MISS TANNEHILL, who has been for upwards of four years at their seminary; at first as an industrious, intelligent pupil and distinguished member of the first class; and for the last two years as a teacher, in which capacity she has evinced many valuable qualities, among which, talents, punctuality, patience and impartiality were conspicuous: uniting to these a lively interest in the improvement of her pupils. Mrs. and Miss B. would be happy to hear that she were encouraged in the school which she intends commencing on their leaving this place.

$20 REWARD.

RAN away on the 30th of last month from the subscriber, living on Bradock's field, near Pittsburgh, a negro boy, named about 19 years of age, five feet six or seven inches in height. The clothing he took with him, was a roundabout, jacket, and trowsers, of blue striped cotton, a pair of tow-linen trowsers, a white vest and two tow shirts, a wool hat somewhat less than half worn. He has a scar on the top of his head, occasioned by the fall of a brick from a scaffold when a child, which yet continues tender and causes pain when pressed, he is fond of whiskey and will get drunk, at which time he has a stupid look, he effects to be a rigid methodist, and is fond of singing hymns, which he frequently practises. I will give the above reward and all reasonable charges if brought home, or twenty dollars for securing him in any jail in the U. States, so that I can get him again. He went away in company with a yellow man named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Henry Dickson, the property of J. & H. Wallace, who will give a reasonable reward for his apprehension.

JEFFERSON;

WOMAN.

Woman and wine
Together shine,
Two dimpled girls in pleasure's wreath;
But the grey lip,
And the eye we dip,
Will each declaring decay bequeath.

Wealth and love,
Like heaven above,
Ten thousand brilliant lights display;
But their fondest smile,
And their artful wile,
Beam like the meteor to decay.

Womanhood and truth,
In age or youth,
Like two bright orbs the world illumes;
When one must decline,
The other will shine,
To light its pathway to the tombs.

Woman's a flow'r,
From Eden's bow'r,
Whose heart stern affliction may sever;
Though her charms may fade,
If virtue be'nt laid,
She's beautiful, beautiful ever.

If some women would to heaven go,
In mis'ry there they'd grovel;
For midst the joys the hear'ns bestow,
There would not be a navel. B——.

THE EVENING HOUR.

This is the hour when memory wakes
Visions of joy that could not last;
This is the hour when fancy takes
A survey of the past:

She brings before the pensive mind
The hallow'd scenes of earlier years
And friends who long have been consign'd
To silence and to tears!

The few we lik'd—the one we lov'd—
A sacred band, come stealing on:
And many a form far hence remov'd,
And many a pleasure gone!

Friendships that now in death are hush'd,
And young affection's broken chain;
And hopes that fate too quickly crush'd,
In memory bloom again!

Now watch the fading gleams of day
But none so bright as quickly flown:
Just after last they died away,
Till all at last were gone!

This is the hour that fancy wreathes
Her spell around joys that could not last;
This is the hour when memory breathes
A sigh to pleasure past!

Miscellany.

From the Village Record.

FROM MY OAKEN TABLE.

"Ah me!" cried Magdalen Stapleton, as she came wringing her hands out of the cellar. "What is the matter—what ails the girl?" said Mrs. Whitworth; "Has an adder bit you?" "Oh, no!" "Have you run a nail in your foot?" "Ah! no; but I was thinking as I placed the heavy pot of lard on the shelf, that if I was married and had a baby, and it had grown large enough to follow me, and the pot had fallen on its head, it might have killed the poor, blessed little creature!" And here her tears flowed afresh.

And pray, gentle readers, how much better founded are 19-20ths of the troubles that afflict ourselves, or the other inhabitants of the earth. How few—how very few, are the real requisites of life. They bear a small relation to the little needed after we leave the world. Then a few boards, a winding sheet, and six feet by two of earth, answer all our purposes. Now thousands of families live, and enjoy their living, who feed upon less than is wasted from a single supplies.

Cumming wanted honor—wanted fame—wanted revenge——M'Duffie, several things, that were unreasonable. Arabella is happy or unhappy as she finds that her bonnet is No. 40, and her friend Charlotte's a few numbers lower or higher——Ruth is unhappy that she was not invited to Deborah's party—— Jared is unhappy because John has a house larger and better furnished, although his own has more roller, and is finished in a style of superabundant elegance——Could you stop half the long faces in the city, and compel them to tell you the cause of their gloomy and desponding looks, you would find that their unhappiness had as little just foundation as Magdalen Stapleton's.

What then? What a question! —— Go to work—Be more rational in what you desire; enjoy the good things within your power, without vainly sighing for those beyond it, or making yourselves miserable on account of fancied misfortune or imaginary ills.

OLD HODGE.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.

TALE.

What do folks say? is the question—a question that has more influence on the manners of mankind, than all the laws of society. Folks must talk—the business of their lives. Who can tell the influence of what folks say? When I see any thing in a new coat, or a farthing what I see, (provided I dare) I shall follow him; if I do, I am a fool, and unprincipled mankind are fools. Most people are fools, and the fools of society depends upon the fools of fashion. Most people are fools, and the fools of society depends upon the fools of fashion. Most people are fools, and the fools of society depends upon the fools of fashion

Like two bright orbs the world illume;
When one must decline,
The other will shine,
To light its pathway to the tomb.

Woman's a flow'r,
From Eden's bow'r,
Whose heart stern affliction may sever;
Though her charms may fade,
If virtue but aid,
She's beautiful, beautiful ever.

There would not be a novel. B——.

THE EVENING HOUR.

This is the hour when memory wakes
Visions of joy that could not last;
This is the hour when fancy takes
A survey of the past:

She brings before the pensive mind
The hallow'd scenes of earlier years;
And friends who long have been consign'd
To silence and to tears!

The few we lik'd—the one we lov'd—
A sacred band, come stealing on:
And many a form far hence remov'd,
And many a pleasure gone!

Friendships that now in death are hush'd,
And young affection's broken chain;
And hopes that fate too quickly crush'd,
In memory bloom again!

Few watch the fading gleams of day
But muse on hopes as quickly flown:
That after that they died away,
Till all at last were gone!

This is the hour that fancy wreathes
Her spells round joys that could not last;
This is the hour when memory breathes
A sigh to pleasure past!

FROM MY OAKEN TABLE.

"Ah me!" cried Magdalen Stapleton, as she came wringing her hands out of the cellar. "What is the matter—what ails the girl" said Mrs. Whitworth; "Has an adder bit you?" "Oh, no!" "Have you run a nail in your foot?" "Ah! no; but I was thinking as I placed the heavy pot of lard on the shelf, that if I was married and had a baby, and it had grown large enough to follow me, and the pot had fallen on its head, it might have killed the poor, blessed little creature!" And here her tears flowed afresh.

And pray, gentle readers, how much better founded are 18-20ths of the troubles that afflict yourselves, or the other inhabitants of the world. How few—how very few, are the real sequisites of life. They bear a far off relation to the little needed after we leave the world. Then a few boards, a winding sheet, and six feet by two of earth, answer all our purposes. Now thousands of families live, and enjoy their living, who feed upon less than is wasted from your supplies.

Cumming wanted honor—wanted fame—wanted revenge ——M'Duffie several things, not more reasonable. Arabella is happy or miserable as she finds that her bonnet is No. 60, and her friend Charlotte's a few numbers lower or higher——Ruth is unhappy that she was not invited to Deborah's party—— Jared is unhappy because John has a house larger and better furnished, although his own has more room, and is finished in a style of superfluous elegance——Could you stop half the long faces in the city, and compel them to tell you the cause of their gloomy and desponding looks, you would find that their unhappiness had as little just foundation as Magdalen Stapleton's.

What then? What a question! — Go to —Be more rational in what you desire; enjoy the good things within your power, without vainly sighing for those beyond it, or making yourselves miserable on account of fancied misfortune or imaginary ills.

OLD HODGE.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.

TALK.

What do folks say? is the question—a question that has more influence on the manners of mankind, than all the laws of society. Folks must talk—the more they talk the better. Who can resist the influence of what folks say? When I hear a man say he does not care a farthing what folks talk about him I dont believe him; if I do, I consider him an abandoned, unprincipled man, fully ripe for the operation of law. Most people believe that the good order of society depends wholly on the wise construction of the laws; I do not, the good opinion of our neighbor, and the people within the circle of our acquaintance have more influence on our conduct and happiness in life, than all the laws that have emanated from the days of Solomon to the present time. Here shall we obtain this opinion [illegible] talk and talk a great deal too. I feel uneasy when I hear people finding fault with their neighbors by talking about faults. It is necessary to good order in society, as I have before observed, to prevent mysterious silence. We may even listen for talking, and [illegible] discovers the good effect it has. At first we repeat the injury, but folks talk again; we then begin to consider whether we have given occasion for the observations; if so, we shall reform, at least be more circumspect in our behaviour. Few of us are such veterans, as to move on in defiance of the good opinion of the people among whom we live. But folks that talk a great deal, tell false stories, and often injure the reputation of their neighbor; this is a temporary evil; winds and rain often do great mischief, no argument that they are unnecessary; it is not at all surprising, that in our great zeal in a good cause, we should sometimes trespass, and pass the bounds of rigid truth. What great injury is done? our neighbor perceives that we are watching and talking about his conduct in life, and will set a guard over all his actions, lest he give occasion for folks to talk in future. Talk away my friends and keep talking; enjoin secrecy if you please, no matter; your friend has always his bosom friend, to whom he can entrust the secret, and you may be sure it will not fail coming to the ears of the person talked about; it all tends directly to the reformation of manners, and surely must be the only reason why there is so much talking about each other. We must not only be instant in season, but out of season; talking about our neighbor, is preaching out of season. It is a melancholy truth, that most people dread the displeasure of the public, more than the vengeance of heaven, and it is equally true, the talking and ridicule of our neighbor often makes a deeper impression, than the sober, solemn truths of divine revelation.

A writer in the Leesburgh paper alluding to the "great horse race," at Washington the other day, makes the following contrast. He states that he was at the sale of the late Col Hoomes, of Caroline county, where fifteen or twenty prints of horses (some of the originals of which are now dead) were sold for twenty-four dollars; a pair of Diomede and Hamilton, for thirty-five dollars; and a print of the new market race ground in England, for thirty five dollars!—while at the same sale he saw a likeness of Gen. Washington, (by R Peale) three feet long, in a military dress, with a large gilt frame, sell for two dollars and fifty cents! and another likeness of Thomas Jefferson, for one dollar and fifty cents. Such is the strange taste of some people in the world.

Propagation of the Silk Worm.—The propagation of the Silk Worm, and the manufacture of silk, has excited a good deal of interest, in this county, since the exhibition of the handsome specimens of Maj. Bingham and Mr. Gillespie, at the late fair in Goshen. Curiosity, and a desire to gratify the public, have led me to make some inquiries into the subject. I have visited Major Bingham, and the following information is principally obtained from the different members of his family.

Nothing can be done in the manufacture of silk, without the leaves of the white Mulberry Tree. For although the worms will eat other leaves they never make silk, unless fed on these alone. The trees may be propagated by the seed or by plants from the nursery. They thrive best in a sandy loam. I am told the plants may be produced in abundance, from the state of Connecticut, where many families make a considerable business of manufacturing silk. Maj Bingham planted a quantity of seed, about 14 years ago. The trees, I should judge, are now 20 feet high, and the tops are spread, something like an apple tree. The business may be commenced on a small scale, when the trees are quite young.

In the beginning of July, soon after the worms have completed their balls of silk, those intended for the next year's supply of worms, are placed by themselves on a sheet of brown, or other paper, in the room where they are kept. In a few days the worms will crawl out of the balls and assume the form of a miller, but they never fly nor crawl from the paper. They remain here together a short time, when the females deposit their eggs and die. One will deposit at least five hundred eggs, which are about the size of a mustard seed. The eggs adhere to the paper, and remain in that condition until the following spring. They should be kept from the air and frost as much as possible—say in a warm cellar, or between folds of linen. When the leaves begin to shoot out and the weather becomes warm in the month of May, the paper with the eggs, is to be brought out, and exposed to the sun and air. A very small insect will soon be discovered in the place of the egg. Soon after they are hatched they are to be returned in the house, and a few leaves immediately placed within their reach—they continue to grow for about four weeks, when they would be nearly or quite two inches long—during the four weeks they are growing, they shed their skin three or four times, and continue to devour an additional quantity of leaves as they increase in size. As they arrive at their full growth, which will be about the middle or latter part of June, they begin to wind their balls of silk, and so rapidly is this labor performed by the worms, that in about three days from the time they begin to spin or wind the ball is finished—the fibres of silk as spun by the worms are very strong, so that they seldom break in reeling, and yet they are as fine as a person's hair. The balls are either of a yellowish or a blueish white, from an inch to an inch and a half long, the worm being so contracted, as to be completely enveloped in the ball. As soon as they complete the winding, those balls intended for silk must be exposed to a warm sun—this kills the worm contained in them. The process of getting the silk from the ball must then be attended to without delay, while the dead worm is in the ball, and before it causes a disagreeable smell. The balls are to be thrown into a kettle or tub of hot water—they are then to be stirred round with a small bush, until the loose fuz which adheres to the outside of the balls, is gathered on the bush. The end of the fibre of silk is then to be sought for and reeled off—it may be spun at leisure. The insects remain in the eggs from July till May—they hatch, grow, make the silk, deposit their eggs, and die, all in about six weeks.

It is mentioned in the Providence papers, that President Messer has received letters patent from the President of the United States for a recent discovery made in the course of his experiments in Hydraulics; by which, in constructing the flumes of most if not all mills, the force of water will be doubly, and in some, trebly increased.

The Cumberland Brewery FOR SALE.

THE subscriber offers the Cumberland Brewery, on terms very advantageous to any one wishing to engage in the brewing business. Situated in a thriving place, through which the great national road passes, and at the head of the navigation of the Potomac, this establishment possesses advantages scarcely exceeded by any other in any country town. The copper and all the other vessels, constructed on a scale to brew twelve barrels of beer at a time, are in complete order. There are four Porter Vats, which contain in the whole one hundred barrels, and a stock of Porter Bottles.

The Malt House and Kiln are calculated to make and dry as much malt as is consumed on the scale above mentioned. The furnaces are all constructed for the use of coal, a great saving in labour and fuel.

A DISTILLERY, attached to the Brewery, supplied from a never failing spring, may be kept in operation throughout the year.

The subscriber will lease these establishment on the first of February next, if not before that time, so that the lessee may prepare a stock of porter for the summer season.
